

Will Not Concede Wilson's Election! Says Mr. Wilcox

Republican National Chairman Will Wait for Official Figures From the Close States in the West

CLAIMS A SPLIT OF CALIFORNIA ELECTORS

By Carl D. Groat
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—Outwardly at least Charles E. Hughes is showing nothing of the disappointment which is attended with the loss of the biggest job in America. There is no doubt but that he was keenly disappointed when he awoke on Wednesday morning after having gone to sleep confident that he had won the election, but today he did not show any signs of discontent or disappointment. One thing that he is grateful for is the handsome majority his home state accorded him. Neither Hughes nor any of his managers concede Wilson's election. They will await official count. They are not sure of the result in California and it is understood that a quiet investigation into this has been advised. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes will probably remain at Hotel Astor for several days and it is probable that they will go to Montclair, N. J., where Hughes rested during the intervals between his campaign tours.

Want Living Cost Probe By Congress

Ohio Miners Petition President and Governor for Investigation.

Columbus, O., Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—The Ohio State miners' organization today sent out a copy of a resolution to President Wilson and Governor Willis demanding national and state investigation of the high cost of living. The resolution represents 50,000 miners and it declares that the high cost of living is caused "by unfair and illegal speculation in foodstuffs and necessary commodities thereby causing hunger and stress in families where the bread winner is constantly employed."

WILL ARREST CONTRIBUTORS

Chicago, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—Railroad heads, leading bankers and officials of big corporations believed to have contributed illegally to campaign funds were subpoenaed to appear before grand juries in five big cities Monday. This is the biggest investigation ever conducted by the government, it was said by United States District Attorney Chas. Clyne today. Evidence has been found where officials of the firm have taken money out of the company's treasury and entered it under the individual's name. The frauds will hit both parties and all cases will be prosecuted regardless of party lines, officials claim.

Miss Grace Penuel of Delmar, Del., who has been visiting Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Long on Nichols street has returned home.

Congress Race is Still Very Close

Rowland Leads by a Plurality of 40 Votes.

The Clearfield County Returning Board made up of Judge Bell, Joseph R. Chase and Wm. H. Patterson, Jr., expect to complete the official count of the vote cast at last Tuesday's election.

The official figures will make little or no change from those published in The Progress on Thursday.

The fight for congress is uncomfortably close, Rowland leading Tobias by about forty votes in the district. The soldier vote for Clearfield county was received by Prothonotary Moore today. In arrived in Clearfield by registered mail from the border. It is made up of the votes of DuBois boys who are members of the Sixteenth regiment, Leslie Gordon and Alfred Owens of Clearfield. The remainder of Troop L, of Bellefonte and Captain Teddy, Bon's machine gun company of O'Leary, Pa., will have their votes counted at Bellefonte, and these soldier votes may be the determining factor in the election.

Mr. Tobias expects to be able to overcome Rowland's lead by added Prohibition votes in McKean and Cameron counties, which were not included in the figures taken from the open return sheets, many of the election boards failing to add the Prohibition figures to the Democratic totals.

Hold Regular Old Time Walk Around and Made Rome Howl Generally Last Night

SEVERAL REPUBLICANS PAID

Our Democratic friends held a regular, old-time jollification party last night, celebrating the re-election of President Woodrow Wilson. The arrangements for the parade were worked out by the heads of the county organization.

The parade was formed on Market street and marched down third to Reed and then to Second and across the river to the Third ward, coming down Turnpike and across Market to Third and from thence to Cherry and up Cherry to Second and then to the court house square. The parade was participated in by the Fifth Regiment, Italian and New York Central shop bands and the West Side drum corps. Several hundred men and boys also marched to the striding strains of "Hail! Hail! The Gang's all Here." County Chairman Ira C. McCloskey and State Committeeman J. D. Connolly leading a fac simile of the Democratic emblem, loaned for the occasion by "Dutch" McAtee, headed the delegation, with Secretary J. Fred Weaver in charge as marshal and William Bigler and Don Gingery as aids.

Following the walk about town the crowd assembled at the court house square. After the assembled bands had rendered "The Star Spangled Banner", State Committeeman Connolly called the assemblage to order and introduced the speakers of the evening. They were Hon. Allison O. Smith, Editors John F. Short, of the Clearfield Republican; Matt Savage of the Public Spirit, Judge Singleton Bell, Hon. J. Frank Snyder, secretary of the Democratic county committee. County Chairman McCloskey was also called upon, but the hustling chairman got stage fright or cold feet and beat it before his time came.

It was quite a gathering and appeared to give our Democratic brethren a whole lot of satisfaction. The placards on the mule and the banners carried in the parade furnished a lot of amusement along the line.

Scott Norris, Dean Read, Al Cowdrick, Dr. Cowdrick and several other hide-bound Republicans showed they were good sports by appearing in the parade following their losing of bets on Hughes. Reed had to wheel Hiram Scheifer in a wheel barrow, while Norris was the guest of Harry Healey and the Cowdricks were captured by Jim Redding. It was a great night for the Demmys.

OPENING OF NEW YORK HORSE SHOW

New York, Nov. 11.—The National Horse show, the event of the year for patrons of the horse in ring competition, and the first great public function of the season for fashionable New York society, had its formal opening in Madison Square Garden this afternoon, and for a week to come the reign of the horse in the metropolis will be supreme. From every indication the big annual exhibition will be much the same as in the 21 years of the show's earlier history, and will meet with the same generous support from wealthy and fashionable patrons with the only difference that this season there will be a little more variety in the character of the ring contests than in former years and some few additional classes will stir to enthusiasm the horse lovers and horse owners in the boxes and around the tankard arena. The prize list this year contains 152 classes for horses and ponies of almost every type reared and used in the United States. A total of $30,000 in premiums will be distributed among the successful owners.

It is hoped a large number will be in attendance for what promises to be an interesting meeting.

GATHERING IN HIGH SCHOOL CELEBRATING DUBOIS VICTORY

Last evening in the High School building between three hundred and four hundred High School students and nearly all the members of the faculty assembled and held a party in celebration of Clearfield High football team's victory over the DuBois High team. The walls were decorated in the High School colors, Red and Black, and the various school colors. The evening was pleasantly spent dancing and playing games and it goes without saying that all present had a good time.

Matter Will Be Formally Presented to School Board of DuBois at Next Meeting

EXPECT NEARLY ONE HUNDRED

Plans for a night school for aliens who have taken out their first naturalization papers, will be presented to the school board of DuBois at the next regular meeting on Monday night by Superintendent of Schools Gast. It will be up to the board to approve the plan and appropriate the sum believed necessary to carry on the work for the coming winter. It is planned to begin the school November 15th, but it is not believed that the school will be in operation before the last of next week at the earliest and the attendance to begin with between fifty and eighty.

Some time ago the subject was broached and immediately the superintendent of schools got into communication with the Department of Labor and Industry and DuBois was accordingly listed as one of the cities in the United States co-operating with the federal government in the education of foreigners who have signified their willingness to become qualified citizens of this country. The matter was never formally presented to the board but has been discussed by that body frequently and it is known that the members are in sympathy with the movement, realizing the importance of such a school in a city where there is a large alien population.

Superintendent Gast secured the list of aliens who have taken out first papers towards naturalization and to each one of these he sent cards explaining the system for education. He has received more than a dozen replies, but it is believed that when the school is established nearly every one of them will apply for admission. Since that time Mr. Gast has received more cards of aliens and to these likewise will be addressed the explanation of the proposed night school.

Mackensen's Army Forced to Retreat

Russians and Roumanians Force Germans from Strong Position in Dobrudja Region.

London, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—General Mackensen's armies were in full retreat from position about Cernavoda in the Dobrudja according to wireless advices from Bucharest by way of Rome. A great fire is raging about the city leading to the belief that the Germans fired it before evacuating. The Bulgarian population is in flight toward the border. Russian troops continue their offensive in Transylvania and the Carpathian and Russian naval forces are co-operating by pushing toward Constanza where Mackensen's right wing rests. Claims of big gains by the Russo-Roumanians were not denied at Berlin though the German war office disagreed with the Bucharest dispatch about the victories in the Biala region. On the western front the Germans were repulsed by the French position of the south of the Somme and in the vicinity of Denieuchot, the French war office announced today. "We are maintaining all our ground," the statement read. North of the Somme a spirited artillery battle in the region of Leshouess was raging. In Saillly-Saillies French aviators brought down five German aeroplanes. Two were destroyed by the French aviator Guyneymier making a total of 21 enemy aeroplanes destroyed by him.

Amsterdam, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—Great surprise is expressed in German newspapers received here on the reelection of President Wilson. Where doubt was expressed when hearing of the reelection of President Wilson it is now accepted as a matter of fact.

The Cologne Gazette editorially said: "The fundamental desire of the American people is peace. In re-electing President Wilson they have achieved a victory. Our position with the Americans will remain unchanged." The Cologne Volks Zeitung said: "President Wilson's reelection strengthens our confidence that the United States will remain neutral."

SHOWER GIVEN IN HONOR OF MISS MONS

Miss Isabel McBlain and Miss Elizabeth Courson gave a miscellaneous shower last evening at the home of Miss McBlain on Fourth Street in honor of Miss Bess Mons whose wedding will take place soon.

The shower gifts were hid throughout the house and the bride-to-be was told to look for them. With each present was an appropriate rhyme. Covers were laid for twelve at a prettily decorated table in the center of which was a large bouquet of carnations. The color scheme being pink and white. Dainty little pink baskets filled with candies were the souvenirs. Miss Mons received many beautiful gifts of cut glass linen and pictures.

LIVE STOCK SHOW OPENS IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Nov. 11.—The National Farm and Live Stock Show, for which preparations have been going forward for nearly a year, opened in this city today for a week's exhibition. The chief aim of the exhibition is to promote diversified agriculture and the breeding of live stock in the South. To this end there has been gathered together the largest display of farm products and purebred horses and cattle ever seen in this section. A bench show and a poultry show are to be conducted in conjunction with the exhibition, and during the coming week there also will be held several conferences and conventions of interest to those engaged in agricultural pursuits.

An attractive wedding took place this morning at half after eleven at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cagle Norris of South Second street when their twin daughter Anne was united in marriage to Walter Robinson Sohn of Harrisburg.

Rev. Walter K. Harnish, of Arch Springs, an uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. Dr. Edward C. Norris, performed the impressive and unique double ring ceremony in the presence of about fifty relatives and friends.

Miss Norris and Mr. Sohn were attended and were married in the parlor of the home in front of a border of greens and chrysanthemums. Mrs. William Heinen of Milton, twin sister of the bride played the beautiful Lohengrin wedding march.

The entire house was beautifully and artistically decorated in mountain-lavels, ropes of ground pine and bouquets of chrysanthemums.

The bride was married in her going away gown which was an attractive blue velvet suit, trimmed in large wolf with a becoming blue pan velvet hat and carried a bouquet of orchids and violets.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. After which the bride and groom left by auto for Tyrone where they took a train for the East. They will tour the Southern states on their wedding trip after which they will make their home in Harrisburg where the groom practices law with the law firm of Hargest and Hargest.

The bride and groom received a number of beautiful gifts including a chest of silver, cutglass, china, linen and furniture.

Those from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Sohn, father and mother of the groom, John Hall, Mr. and Mrs. John Whittaker and daughter Dorothy, all of Harrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. William S. Nelson of Milton; Rev. and Mrs. Walter Harnish and four sons of Arch Springs; Mrs. William Van Allen of Northumberland; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Norris and son Bruce, of Clearfield; and Miss Elizabeth and Harriet Crouch of Tyrone.

Miss Norris is well known here. She is a gifted musician, soprano soloist of the First Presbyterian church of Clearfield and prominent in the social activities. The bridegroom, a son of Daniel W. Sohn, president of the Commercial bank, of Harrisburg, is one of the younger attorneys of the Dauphin county bar, with office in the Commonwealth Trust company's building. He is a graduate of Central High school, Dickinson college and the Dickinson school of law. He is affiliated with the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity.

STATION AT DUBOIS WRECKED

Early this morning a west bound freight from Ridgway jammed the tracks at the B. & P. station in DuBois and ran into the Ladies' Waiting room and went as far as the telegraph office. Fortunately no one was in the waiting room. Freight Agent Mather who was in the office was cut about the arms.

TOO PROUD TO PARADE

Local Democrats are somewhat incensed at two prominent young members of their party who would not join the ranks last night and participate in the big parade. They were so thoroughly imbued with the "too proud to fight spirit" that the parade looked boisterous and rude to them and they had no part in the nasty, vulgar thing.

SATURDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 11, 1916

Our hat is off to our Democratic friend Sheriff Ira C. McCloskey, the efficient, hard working Democratic County Chairman and his invaluable assistants, Secretaries J. Fred Weaver, of Clearfield, and John Pentz of DuBois. That the Democrats carried Clearfield County for President and Congress and elected one member of the Legislature is due in large measure to the splendid work done by the Chairman and his organization, and we Republicans who recognize and appreciate real merit even in an adversary, take this means of joining the worthy Chairman's Democratic friends in extending congratulations on his splendid victory.

AIDING THE BLIND.

It is gratifying to know that the merit of the Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Blind is so widely appreciated as evidenced by the generous contributions for their new buildings, which now total $60,000. A goodly portion of this amount was subscribed by the directors and corporators themselves before making any personal solicitation; and there is good reason to believe the long waiting list of sightless children is due to the school becoming better known throughout this section of the State and speaks well for its steadily growing efficiency. The contemplated additions to the buildings will not only afford accommodations for more pupils, but will also provide increased facilities to give all the children of Western Pennsylvania who are blind or have very defective eyesight a thorough literary, musical, industrial and physical education, and at the same time, to improve and conserve vision whenever possible. The training of this group of children is naturally slower than with the sighted, and it is practically another calamity in their lives if deprived of several years' schooling, frequently meaning a dependence which might have been averted by entering school at an earlier age.

"Happiness Through Independence" is the slogan at this worthy school; and the management is entitled to public support in their efforts to provide increased facilities. —Pittsburgh Dispatch.

THE TWO GRANDMOTHERS

In New York town a lady gay
Is tripping all the hours away
At the dansants along Broadway.
A bottle blonde she is I ween,
The rogue put off her face hath seen,
She had a debutantish mein,
Her skirts are short to an extreme,
And yet a Grandmamma is she
Her years they number sixty-three.

In Londontown a lady rare
With gracious mein and kindly air
And tender eyes 'neath snowy hair
Is working all the hours away.
Her share in England's bloody fray,
To tend the wounded day by day,
Though worn and tired she does not stay,
And yet a Grandmamma is she
Her years they number sixty-three.

London, Oct. 26.—(By Mail)—In American cities the grandmother is as extinct as the Dodo bird. To be sure we have a bit of giddy fluff that is turned out daily by the masseuse, the hair dresser, the smart dressmaker and the beauty doctor to fox trot and flirt and bridge it's way through a butterfly existence. It doesn't even answer to the name of grandmother however for the youngest generation has been painstakingly drilled to call it either by it's Christian name or a pet one.

Oh where are the grandmothers of yesterday? The grandmother of memories and storybooks. In rustling black silk skirts with a bit of old lace at her ivory throat and falling over her ivory hands. A wee lace cap on her silver hair and the peace and understanding and love of a double maternity shining in her old young eyes.

And I am an old sleuth! I have tracked her to her lair. I have discovered her in all her old time charm and old time lace and her habitat is England!

American parents take their offspring to the Zoo and to the Museum of Natural History to see the ichthyosaurs. Surely the next step should be to take them to London to show them a grandmother.

You can imagine the dramatic situation.

Little Robert (seeing a lovely white haired old lady in Hyde park).

"Oh, Mother what is that?"

Mother, "That is a grandmother, my son."

Little Robert, "Oh I want to take her home with me."

Mother, "No, my child, the air of America is fatal to grandmothers. Her hair would turn red or yellow, she would contract fox trot and be just like your 'Mommies'."

Little Robert (shuddering) "How terrible."

He walks slowly away looking back sadly.

Now I don't for a minute mean to imply that a woman should not be as young as she feels and as young as she can nor on the other hand do I mean that the English grandmother is an old frump. The true secret recipe for a successful grandmother is one who knows just when and how to grow old gracefully. The English grandmother has solved the problem. The American grandmother has not.

Although the English grandmother is a true one in all senses of the word she by no means is a hack number. Indeed she keeps abreast of the times, is up on all the burning questions of the day and is also in the thick of the wonderful war work that the women of England are doing.

I know of one wonderful old gentlewoman of eighty years. She is erect and entertaining and charming and dear. She has had fourteen children and at present four of her sons are in Parliament, two in the House of Lords and two in the House of Commons.

This dear old lady has turned her motor over to the wounded soldiers and goes about behind a plodding old Dobbin because she thinks it wicked to pay the high price for petrol just for her own selfish comfort. In many other ways she is doing her bit for the war and she is but one among many. She of course wears one of those sweet little lace caps not of the boudoir persuasion that we know so well, but real grandmother ones.

Some of the bonnets of course are real bristlin and hearse plumed affairs but the majority are soft dove grey or black flecked with a silver leaf or blooming modestly with violets, a purple pansy or sweet hawthorn.

That's two things anyway that England may boast she has and America hasn't—bonnets and grandmothers!

BELL GIRLS SUPERSEDE

BELL BOYS IN HOTEL STATLER

Cleveland, O., Nov. 11.—"Front" says the clerk at the hotel desk and instead of the customary ha-buttend boy there comes a "knock-me-down" blonde or a dashing brunette to take your luggage and pilot you to your room.

"Bell girls" are more attentive than bellboys says the originator of the idea. That is the reason they have been installed in the Hotel Statler here.

Women guests find the "bell girls" almost as useful as a maid, the management states. The "hook-me-up" problem is now easily solved.

None of the drummers has complained.

COAL HIGH, PROSPERITY

DID IT, SAY DEALERS

New York, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—Prosperity may yet freeze New York's population to death.

Such at least was today the explanation the coal man, laded out with each order coal—$10 to $12 a ton and still going up.

The mills and factories are so busy that their demands for coal is stupendous, is the unanimous avowal. They have simply grabbed everything in sight and are aching to get their hands on more.

Of course a demand like that pushes prices up and the prices for domestic follow. Then, too, cars are scarce, storage is at an almost prohibitive figure and wages for all workers in the coal mining and handling activities are high. That's all.

"Wife, the mahogany center table goes into the fire next. We can put a piece of coal in the drawing room in its place and folks will believe we are tremendously wealthy." Such may be the solution.

To the timid and hesitating everything is impossible because it seems so.

CURWENSVILLE NEWS

The Curwensville Plumbing and Heating Company is installing an outfit for a bath room in the home of Max Roth.

Mrs. Frank Harley, Ridge Avenue, was taken to the Clearfield hospital today by her physician, Dr. H. O. King, and will undergo an operation.

The Herald is contemplating issuing a fine Christmas edition. Curwensville merchants should contribute liberally by buying ad space. It will be a peach.

A. Z. Wolf paid a visit to his Cato mining interests yesterday where he found everything working along to his entire satisfaction. A number of other Curwensville people are also interested in the Cato mining industry.

Mrs. E. H. Delaney, of Grantsville, Maryland, arrived in Curwensville yesterday, accompanied by her little son, Thomas, and will visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter, at the Park hotel.

Lycas Canola, employed at dumping cars at the Caldwell mines, had the middle finger of his hand badly lacerated yesterday afternoon. The wound was so severe that it required the attention of the mine physician, Dr. H. O. King.

Reuben Sherr was quite severely injured yesterday while trying to board a moving train of mine cars on the brick yard tram road. He was thrown to the ground. He is employed as a brakeman on the road. Dr. Ake rendered him medical assistance.

The hearts of the employees at the P. H. & L. company were made glad yesterday when superintendent Blake had notices posted throughout the buildings announcing a substantial raise in wages all around. The increase of wages came unsolicited on the part of the men, and therefore is doubly appreciated.

A young son of Bruce Draucker, had the misfortune yesterday afternoon to break the large bone below the knee, of his right leg. He, with some other boys, were playing at football in the alley near the school ground, and in running slipped and fell causing the injury. Dr. King reduced the fracture.

The Knights of Pythias order is getting in shape to work what is known in their lodge parlance, the long form of initiation. It is a very beautiful and interesting piece of work and requires about twenty persons to do the work properly, and also some very expensive paraphernalia. The lodge is certainly forging to the front rank in membership and working degrees.

Has anybody seen Si Richards since the election?—Curwensville Herald. It was reported last evening that some one saw him on his way to salt river with a crew of lukewarm Republicans, who were going to shovel fog away from the mouth of the stream so that the Hughes boats when they came that way on their trip would have no difficulty in finding their way into the stream.

W. D. Gates, one of the hardware merchants of Curwensville, who has been ill for some weeks, went to Clearfield hospital on Monday, where he is being prepared for an operation. The nature of which the Progress representative could not learn last evening. Mr. Gates has many friends in this town who will watch the progress of his case with considerable anxiety, and have only the one wish that he may come through his ordeal successfully.

W. P. Tate, who was a candidate on the Prohibition ticket for assembly, feels very grateful to his townspeople for the number of votes he received on Tuesday. He did not expect to be a winning candidate in the borough under the circumstances, and was rather surprised that he received as many votes as he did. He desires, through the Curwensville letter, of the Progress, to return his sincere thanks for the hearty support given him by his friends.

The miners employed at the Pyramid mines came out yesterday and are asking an increase of pay. This mine has been paying the scale price right along, 75 cents per gross ton. The demand is for $1.00 per gross ton. The demand seems to be an unjust one, as the operators are paying all that any, or the larger majority of mines are paying, the union scale price, which was signed up for two years. We were told last evening by one who is in a position to know for certainty, that there was not a miner employed at the Pyramid who, if he worked all day, could not make his three dollars and a half. It is to be hoped that the matter between the operators and the men will be amicably adjusted today.

Lesson VII.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 12, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Rom. xiv, 13, to xv, 3—Memory Verse, xiv, 15, 17—Golden Text, Rom. xiv, 21—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This is called a temperance lesson and is no doubt intended to be used as an exhortation and a warning against the use of intoxicants, a most important topic, and a line of service on which we cannot do too much, but when I consider the intemperate people who are so often prominent in what is called temperance work I feel increasingly the need of getting at the root of the matter rather than prescribing for symptoms. The words "temperance" and "duty" are seldom used in the Scriptures, not over six or seven times in each in the whole Bible, and the meaning of temperance is self control in every form (Acts xiv, 25; 1 Cor. ix, 25; Gal. v, 23, 11 Pet. i, 6). As in Paul's talk with Felix and verse 17 of our lesson, righteousness comes first. In 1 Cor. vi, 9, 10, where the drunkard is mentioned among other gross sinners, the opening sentence is "The unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God."

The great topic of this epistle is righteousness, the word being used at least thirty-five times and fifteen of these in chapters iv and x. As in I. 17, it is the righteousness of God, that which God requires, and has provided fully and freely in Christ, but which men object to, preferring their own filthy rags of self righteousness, character, reformation, duty and the like (Isa. lxiv, 6; Rom. x, 3). There is no possible way for any one, drunken or sober, moral or immoral, but to plead guilty, according to chap. iii, 19, and be justified freely by grace (iii, 24); this will come the peace and joy of being justified by faith (xiv, 17; xv, 13), and the patience and comfort of the Scriptures (xv, 4-6). It is no use to appeal to any kind of a sinner to do right, for until born again by receiving Christ all are said to be "in the flesh," merely "natural" people, and cannot please God (John i, 12, 13; Rom. viii, 7, 8).

When Christ is received as a personal Saviour and our righteousness, then we are said to be "in the Spirit," and by the Spirit we may be led, controlled, live and make no provision for the flesh or its lusts (Rom. xiii, 14; Gal. v, 16-25). Salvation, of which the first eight chapters of this letter tell us so fully, is the free gift of God for all who will receive it, or rather Him (Rom. vi, 23; Rev. xxi, 6; xlii, 17), and there are no differences nor degrees, for all who are in Christ have all the benefits of His finished work and are equally saved and delivered from the wrath to come (I Thess. i, 10). Now, as saved people, we are supposed to have done with self and walk in His steps who never pleased Himself, but always pleased the Father and lived and died to save others (Rom. xiv, 7; xv, 3; 1 Pet. ii, 21-23; John viii, 20; Gal. ii, 20). If we thus had the good of others at heart instead of our own selfish ends we would not talk of eating or drinking what we pleased regardless of others' infirmities.

We are here to win others to Christ and then to help build them up in Him, rooted and grounded in love and filled with all the fullness of God for service here and an abundant entrance into His kingdom by and by (xiv, 19; Eph. iii, 16-20; 1 Pet. i, 5-11). Although all believers are accepted in the beloved, washed, sanctified and justified and made meet to be partakers of His inheritance (Eph. i, 6, 7; 1 Cor. vi, 11; Col. i, 12), we are left here for service and good works, for which every one of us shall give account of himself to God at the judgment seat of Christ, where only saved people shall be, and there our service shall be approved and rewarded, or else burned up and we suffer loss (xiv, 7-12; 1 Cor. iii, 11-15). The service which will be rewarded will be that which He has wrought in us by His Spirit, according to Phil. ii, 13; Heb. xiii, 21. We cannot expect that anything we do of ourselves that is not His working in us will have His approval.

When I was off duty for eleven weeks a little over three years ago because of heart failure, which many thought would take me home, nothing gave more comfort in my weakness as I lay in bed than Rom. xiv, 8: "Whether we live, we live unto the Lord, and whether we die, we die unto the Lord. Whether we live, therefore, or die, we are the Lord's." It is possible so to abandon ourselves to Him for life or death, for service or suffering, that His perfect will shall be everything to us, and our heart song shall be, "Not I, but Christ, 'Not I, but the grace of God' (Gal. ii, 20) 1 Cor. xv, 10. This will keep us so occupied with Himself that we shall not see others except to help them and will make us so sensitive to what He likes or dislikes that we shall not wish to allow that which He would condemn.

Forgiveness is Jesus as an our way. The words "Christ" doth move. That we are dead upon His arm and eat His bread, dear Lord approve? The kingdom to which we are hastening and which cannot come till He comes it is this our soul's vision, will lift us above all such matters as eating and drinking, and is there any harm in this or that, and our acceptable service of Christ will be manifestly righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost (xv, 17, 18).

ON THE SCREEN

"THE CAPTIVE GOD"

At the Opera House Monday Evening "The Captive God" in which William S. Hart is starred on the Triangle Program is the story of a little Spanish boy, who was cast upon the shore of Eastern coast of Mexico, early in the 16th century, when Mexico was dominated by the Aztec. Never having seen a white person before, the local natives, a tribe called Tehuans, bring him up as a god and call him Chiapa. When he reaches manhood Chiapa is given authority over the entire tribe. He falls in love with the priestess Telocote, and she yields to his advances although she is quite unworthy of him and encourages other suitors. When the Aztec hear that under the white God, the Tehuans are very prosperous, they start forth to conquer them. The Aztec army is under command of Mexitli, the chief general of Montezuma, the emperor; and having conquered the Tehuans, he carried off Telocote as his personal slave. Chiapa follows as a spy and in the garden of Montezuma, he is wounded by a guard but Lolomi, the beautiful daughter of the emperor saves him. They fall in love. Meanwhile Mexitli has tired of Telocote and now seeks the hand of princess Lolomi, who would rather die than have him. As the emperor gives Mexitli his consent he tries to get the princess by force and in doing so discovers Chiapa. Chiapa is sentenced to die at the end of the year on the sacrificial stone. But Lolomi, finding her pleas to her father of no avail, sends word to the Tehuans that their god is captive. An avenging army sweeps down and there is brought about a sequence of thrilling scenes with a smashing finish.

Owner of Boston Red Sox Has Had Career of Fortune and Luck

Frazee Endowed With Idea that Fate and Luck Play Principal Part In His Life.

New York, Nov. 9.—"His youthful Ambition Realized" might be an appropriate title for a short story covering the comparatively short career of Harry F. Frazee from the time that he left school to the present day when his name appears as one of the new owners of the world's champions Boston Red Sox.

His acquisition of the Boston Club is said to have endowed Mr. Frazee with the idea that Fate plays a more important part in a man's life than what so many people are pleased to call luck. For he it is known that while Mr. Frazee has won fame and wealth as a theatrical magnate, his original idea concerning his future comprised no less a goal than the ownership of a baseball club, though it is improbable that at that time his ambition seemed so high as the ownership of a world's championship outfit.

At that time he was counted among the populace of Peoria, Ill., and had just reached the age of 16. His youthful ambition might have taken root and developed into something quite important, so far as the national game is concerned, except for the fact that his Peoria club lost the first game away from the home grounds, and failed to receive sufficient coin of the realm in a neighboring city to enable them to return home. Young Mr. Frazee telegraphed a fond parent, took the next train back to Peoria and decided to become a regular member of the theatrical profession.

So his introduction to the theater was accomplished as an usher. In a short time he graduated to the box office, but son decided that too much money was going into the hands of other people, and so he decided to branch out for himself.

"Better stay here Harry, where you're well off; you know, a rolling stone gathers no moss." These were the words of counsel the 18-year-old youth by George Harrington, owner of the Peoria playhouse, when the young box office man decided to leave his native city to go on the road in advance of a "rube" show at the magnificent salary of $25 a week. But Mr. Frazee had his own plans as to his future and decided to follow them out.

After touring as an advance agent for a small company in the Far West he migrated to Chicago and bought what is known as the "one-night stand" rights of "The Royal Chef," a musical comedy which had gained considerable prestige in Chicago, but failed to command much attention in the East. The profits of "The Royal Chef" may be said to have been the foundation of Mr. Frazee's fortune, for at that stage of his career the conditions in the smaller cities were particularly advantageous for subsidiary touring companies of metropolitan musical comedy successes.

With the results of "The Royal Chef" as an example, the young manager promptly sent on tour similar organizations in the subsequent Chicago musical successes, and finally decided that psychological moment had arrived to make a production of his own account. In association then with two other managers, he produced "Madame Sherry" the history of which is well known throughout the entire country. He built the Gaiety theater in Chicago in 1909, and "The Kissing Girl," one of the early attractions in that playhouse, was his first independent production. Then came in rapid succession such notable successes as "Ready Money," "Fine Feathers" and "A Pair of Sixes." Before his 30th birthday Mr. Frazee had amassed a considerable fortune and was looked upon as the most successful of the young theatrical producers in America.

Six months before the famous Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno Frazee noted the great interest of the public to see the big Californian who had held the pugilistic championship for some years, and Frazee immediately organized an athletic program, with James J. Jeffries at the head, playing a whirlwind tour of fourteen weeks which is said to have netted Frazee over $60,000.

Today Mr. Frazee enjoys the distinction of having made more big productions and managed more prominent stars than any man of his age in America. He produced "Fine Feathers" with a notable all-star cast including such well known players as Robert Edison, Wilton Lachapelle, Rose Coughlin and Max Fyfe. Much to the surprise of the theatrical profession, he kept this organization intact for two entire seasons, during which time the play was seen with its original cast in every important city of America.

Those best acquainted with the manager and his abilities predict that his achievements as a theatrical magnate will be as brilliant as his success as an owner of theaters and a producer of plays.

THE GLORY OF PIONEERING

"Billowy prairies spreading afar,
Vastling hills where all my loved ones are

So I return while yet 'tis day,
Or shall I enter upon the unknown way?"

This song of the pioneers must have helped them greatly when they were dubious whether to continue on their hard way or return home to their loved ones.

Three cheers for these brave men who sacrificed homes and families, journeying into the far wastes for civilization's sake. When we celebrate the birthdays of the great men of our country let us not forget the unknown heroes who died alone and unknown on the great plains in order that habitation might extend into the far west.

While both Washington "The Father of His Country" and Lincoln, "The Saviour of His Country," deserve unlimited glory, neither of them had hardships surpassing those which many pioneers endured in their ceaseless labors on the great wastes. Were it not for the pioneers who braved the dangers of the wilds, traveling on horseback and in prairie wagons, riding far into the night and camping by some forest's edge until early morning when they might again continue their hard journey, the great western cities would be wild plains. There would be for us no wonderful Yellowstone park or Sunny California. The United States would extend half way across the continent only—no further than the great mountains which we love so well now we have conquered them.

Hats off, we cry, to the brave men who performed the daring feats which have made all this possible. We envy the honor given every man or woman who has done anything for the betterment of our wonderful land. No glory can be taken from them, while we, enjoying their achievements, are a bit disappointed that we can not show our mettle like them.

But cheer up. We can be pioneers in a different way—in studies and research and social betterment. So there is some glory for us too—without the hardships, perhaps, but with the same opportunity to win the admiration of posterity.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back
Hurts or Bladder troubles you

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally,
says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys they become overworked
from strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble,
nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness,
and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding,
stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acids
of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids
in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure. makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious
kidney complications.

Will Not Concede Wilson's Election Says Mr. Wilcox

Republican National Chairman Will Wait for Official Figures From the Close States in the West

CLAIMS A SPLIT OF CALIFORNIA ELECTORS

By Carl D. Groat
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—Outwardly at least Charles E. Hughes is showing nothing of the disappointment which is attended with the loss of the biggest job in America. There is no doubt but that he was keenly disappointed when he awoke on Wednesday morning after having gone to sleep confident that he had won the election, but today he did not show any signs of discontent or disappointment. One thing that he is grateful for is the handsome majority his home state accorded him. Neither Hughes nor any of his managers concede Wilson's election. They will await official count. They are not sure of the result in California and it is understood that a quiet investigation into this has been advised. Mr. and Mrs. Hughes will probably remain at Hotel Astor for several days and it is probable that they will go to Montclair, N. J., where Hughes rested during the intervals between his campaign tours.

Washington, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—What will the speaker of the house address the lady member of that body? The sixth form for addressing a member is the "gentleman from." The members have tried this and all other titles and agree on the obvious "Lady from Montana."

Want Living Cost Probe By Congress

Ohio Miners Petition President and Governor for Investigation.

Columbus, O., Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—The Ohio State miners' organization today sent out a copy of a resolution to President Wilson and Governor Willis demanding national and state investigation of the high cost of living. The resolution represents 50,000 miners and it declares that the high cost of living is caused "by unfair and illegal speculation in foodstuffs and necessary commodities thereby causing hunger and stress in families where the bread winner is constantly employed."

WILL ARREST CONTRIBUTORS

Chicago, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—Railroad heads, leading bankers and officials of big corporations believed to have contributed illegally to campaign funds were subpoenaed to appear before grand juries in five big cities Monday. This is the biggest investigation ever conducted by the government, it was said by United States District Attorney Chas. Clyne today. Evidence has been found where officials of the firm have taken money out of the company's treasury and entered it under the individual's name. The frauds will hit both parties and all cases will be prosecuted regardless of party lines, officials claim.

They left on the evening express for a short wedding trip after which they will reside on West Side.

HUGHES STILL LEADING IN MINNESOTA

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—With 38 precincts missing the Hughes lead of 534 remains unchanged. Early today indications were that the result of the soldier vote may not be known until Monday.

Miss Grace Penuel of Delmar, Del., who has been visiting Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Long on Nichols street has returned home.

Congress Race is Still Very Close

Rowland Leads by a Plurality of 40 Votes.

The Clearfield County Returning Board made up of Judge Bell, Joseph R. Chase and Wm. H. Patterson, Jr., expect to complete the official count of the vote cast at last Tuesday's election.

The official figures will make little or no change from those published in The Progress on Thursday.

The fight for congress is uncomfortably close, Rowland leading Tobias by about forty votes in the district. The soldier vote for Clearfield county was received by Prothonotary Moore today. In arrived in Clearfield by registered mail from the border. It is made up of the votes of DuBois boys who are members of the Sixteenth regiment, Leslie Gordon and Alfred Owens of Clearfield. The remainder of Troop L, of Bellefonte and Captain Teddy, Bon's machine gun company of O'Leary, Pa., will have their votes counted at Bellefonte, and these soldier votes may be the determining factor in the election.

Mr. Tobias expects to be able to overcome Rowland's lead by added Prohibition votes in McKean and Cameron counties, which were not included in the figures taken from the open return sheets, many of the election boards failing to add the Prohibition figures to the Democratic totals.

Hold Regular Old Time Walk Around and Made Rome Howl Generally Last Night

SEVERAL REPUBLICANS PAID

Our Democratic friends held a regular, old-time jollification party last night, celebrating the re-election of President Woodrow Wilson. The arrangements for the parade were worked out by the heads of the county organization.

The parade was formed on Market street and marched down third to Reed and then to Second and across the river to the Third ward, coming down Turnpike and across Market to Third and from thence to Cherry and up Cherry to Second and then to the court house square. The parade was participated in by the Fifth Regiment, Italian and New York Central shop bands and the West Side drum corps. Several hundred men and boys also marched to the striding strains of "Hail! Hail! The Gang's all Here." County Chairman Ira C. McCloskey and State Committeeman J. D. Connolly leading a fac simile of the Democratic emblem, loaned for the occasion by "Dutch" McAtee, headed the delegation, with Secretary J. Fred Weaver in charge as marshal and William Bigler and Don Gingery as aids.

Following the walk about town the crowd assembled at the court house square. After the assembled bands had rendered "The Star Spangled Banner", State Committeeman Connolly called the assemblage to order and introduced the speakers of the evening. They were Hon. Allison O. Smith, Editors John F. Short, of the Clearfield Republican; Matt Savage of the Public Spirit, Judge Singleton Bell, Hon. J. Frank Snyder, secretary of the Democratic county committee. County Chairman McCloskey was also called upon, but the hustling chairman got stage fright or cold feet and beat it before his time came.

It was quite a gathering and appeared to give our Democratic brethren a whole lot of satisfaction. The placards on the mule and the banners carried in the parade furnished a lot of amusement along the line.

Scott Norris, Dean Read, Al Cowdrick, Dr. Cowdrick and several other hide-bound Republicans showed they were good sports by appearing in the parade following their losing of bets on Hughes. Reed had to wheel Hiram Scheifer in a wheel barrow, while Norris was the guest of Harry Healey and the Cowdricks were captured by Jim Redding. It was a great night for the Demmys.

OPENING OF NEW YORK HORSE SHOW

New York, Nov. 11.—The National Horse show, the event of the year for patrons of the horse in ring competition, and the first great public function of the season for fashionable New York society, had its formal opening in Madison Square Garden this afternoon, and for a week to come the reign of the horse in the metropolis will be supreme. From every indication the big annual exhibition will be much the same as in the 21 years of the show's earlier history, and will meet with the same generous support from wealthy and fashionable patrons with the only difference that this season there will be a little more variety in the character of the ring contests than in former years and some few additional classes will stir to enthusiasm the horse lovers and horse owners in the boxes and around the tankard arena. The prize list this year contains 152 classes for horses and ponies of almost every type reared and used in the United States. A total of $30,000 in premiums will be distributed among the successful owners.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER IN DOUBLE WEDDING

Ashley, rector of Christ church, Bordentown. The second ceremony united Mrs. Bright's daughter, Miss Dorothy Gale Bright and Arthur Sanson of this city.

Regular Bi-monthly Meeting to Be Held in New Quarters on Locust Street Tuesday

The regular bi-monthly meeting of the Woman's club will be held in their new rooms on Locust street, Tuesday afternoon, November 14th at 3 o'clock.

The New Year Books, which may be had at the club rooms, contain an especially interesting program for the winter months, including music, public education, literature, domestic arts, sciences and public health.

The subject for Tuesday afternoon is the Gary system of Public Schools and includes story hour, school gardens, school play grounds and school lunches.

It is hoped a large number will be in attendance for what promises to be an interesting meeting.

GATHERING IN HIGH SCHOOL CELEBRATING DUBOIS VICTORY

Last evening in the High School building between three hundred and four hundred High School students and nearly all the members of the faculty assembled and held a party in celebration of Clearfield High football team's victory over the DuBois High team. The walls were decorated in the High School colors, Red and Black, and the various school colors. The evening was pleasantly spent dancing and playing games and it goes without saying that all present had a good time.

Matter Will Be Formally Presented to School Board of DuBois at Next Meeting

EXPECT NEARLY ONE HUNDRED

Plans for a night school for aliens who have taken out their first naturalization papers, will be presented to the school board of DuBois at the next regular meeting on Monday night by Superintendent of Schools Gast. It will be up to the board to approve the plan and appropriate the sum believed necessary to carry on the work for the coming winter. It is planned to begin the school November 15th, but it is not believed that the school will be in operation before the last of next week at the earliest and the attendance to begin with between fifty and eighty.

Some time ago the subject was broached and immediately the superintendent of schools got into communication with the Department of Labor and Industry and DuBois was accordingly listed as one of the cities in the United States co-operating with the federal government in the education of foreigners who have signified their willingness to become qualified citizens of this country. The matter was never formally presented to the board but has been discussed by that body frequently and it is known that the members are in sympathy with the movement, realizing the importance of such a school in a city where there is a large alien population.

Superintendent Gast secured the list of aliens who have taken out first papers towards naturalization and to each one of these he sent cards explaining the system for education. He has received more than a dozen replies, but it is believed that when the school is established nearly every one of them will apply for admission. Since that time Mr. Gast has received more cards of aliens and to these likewise will be addressed the explanation of the proposed night school.

Mackensen's Army Forced to Retreat

Russians and Roumanians Force Germans from Strong Position in Dobrudja Region.

London, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—General Mackensen's armies were in full retreat from position about Cernavoda in the Dobrudja according to wireless advices from Bucharest by way of Rome. A great fire is raging about the city leading to the belief that the Germans fired it before evacuating. The Bulgarian population is in flight toward the border. Russian troops continue their offensive in Transylvania and the Carpathian and Russian naval forces are cooperating by pushing toward Constanza where Mackensen's right wing rests. Claims of big gains by the Russo-Roumanians were not denied at Berlin though the German war office disagreed with the Bucharest dispatch about the victories in the Biala region. On the western front the Germans were repulsed by the French position of the south of the Somme and in the vicinity of Denieuchot, the French war office announced today. "We are maintaining all our ground," the statement read. North of the Somme a spirited artillery battle in the region of Leshouess was raging. In Saillly-Saillies French aviators brought down five German aeroplanes. Two were destroyed by the French aviator Guyneymier making a total of 21 enemy aeroplanes destroyed by him.

Amsterdam, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—Great surprise is expressed in German newspapers received here on the reelection of President Wilson. Where doubt was expressed when hearing of the reelection of President Wilson it is now accepted as a matter of fact.

The Cologne Gazette editorially said: "The fundamental desire of the American people is peace. In re-electing President Wilson they have achieved a victory. Our position with the Americans will remain unchanged." The Cologne Volks Zeitung said: "President Wilson's reelection strengthens our confidence that the United States will remain neutral."

SHOWER GIVEN IN HONOR OF MISS MONS

Miss Isabel McBlain and Miss Elizabeth Courson gave a miscellaneous shower last evening at the home of Miss McBlain on Fourth Street in honor of Miss Bess Mons whose wedding will take place soon.

The shower gifts were hid throughout the house and the bride-to-be was told to look for them. With each present was an appropriate rhyme. Covers were laid for twelve at a prettily decorated table in the center of which was a large bouquet of carnations. The color scheme being pink and white. Dainty little pink baskets filled with candies were the souvenirs. Miss Mons received many beautiful gifts of cut glass linen and pictures.

LIVE STOCK SHOW OPENS IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, La., Nov. 11.—The National Farm and Live Stock Show, for which preparations have been going forward for nearly a year, opened in this city today for a week's exhibition. The chief aim of the exhibition is to promote diversified agriculture and the breeding of live stock in the South. To this end there has been gathered together the largest display of farm products and purebred horses and cattle ever seen in this section. A bench show and a poultry show are to be conducted in conjunction with the exhibition, and during the coming week there also will be held several conferences and conventions of interest to those engaged in agricultural pursuits.

An attractive wedding took place this morning at half after eleven at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Cagle Norris of South Second street when their twin daughter Anne was united in marriage to Walter Robinson Sohn of Harrisburg.

Rev. Walter K. Harnish, of Arch Springs, an uncle of the bride, assisted by Rev. Dr. Edward C. Norris, performed the impressive and unique double ring ceremony in the presence of about fifty relatives and friends. Miss Norris and Mr. Sohn were attended and were married in the parlor of the home in front of a border of greens and chrysanthemums. Mrs. William Heinen of Milton, twin sister of the bride played the beautiful Lohengrin wedding march.

The entire house was beautifully and artistically decorated in mountain-lavels, ropes of ground pine and bouquets of chrysanthemums.

The bride was married in her going away gown which was an attractive blue velvet suit, trimmed in large wolf with a becoming blue pan velvet hat and carried a bouquet of orchids and violets.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. After which the bride and groom left by auto for Tyrone where they took a train for the East. They will tour the Southern states on their wedding trip after which they will make their home in Harrisburg where the groom practices law with the law firm of Hargest and Hargest.

The bride and groom received a number of beautiful gifts including a chest of silver, cutglass, china, linen and furniture.

Those from out of town were: Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Sohn, father and mother of the groom, John Hall, Mr. and Mrs. John Whittaker and daughter Dorothy, all of Harrisburg, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Nelson of Milton; Rev. and Mrs. Walter Harnish and four sons of Arch Springs; Mrs. William Van Allen of Northumberland; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Norris and son Bruce, of Curwensville and Miss Elizabeth and Harriet Crouch of Tyrone.

Miss Norris is well known here. She is a gifted musician, soprano soloist of the First Presbyterian church of Clearfield and prominent in the social activities. The bridegroom, a son of Daniel W. Sohn, president of the Commercial bank, of Harrisburg, is one of the younger attorneys of the Dauphin county bar, with office in the Commonwealth Trust company's building. He is a graduate of Central High school, Dickinson college and the Dickinson school of law. He is affiliated with the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity.

STATION AT DUBOIS WRECKED

Early this morning a west bound freight from Ridgway jammed the tracks at the B. & P. station in DuBois and ran into the Ladies' Waiting room and went as far as the telegraph office. Fortunately no one was in the waiting room. Freight Agent Mather who was in the office was cut about the arms.

TOO PROUD TO PARADE

Local Democrats are somewhat incensed at two prominent young members of their party who would not join the ranks last night and participate in the big parade. They were so thoroughly imbued with the "too proud to fight spirit" that the parade looked boisterous and rude to them and they had no part in the nasty, vulgar thing.

SATURDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 11, 1916

Our hat is off to our Democratic friend Sheriff Ira C. McCloskey, the efficient, hard working Democratic County Chairman and his invaluable assistants, Secretaries J. Fred Weaver, of Clearfield, and John Pentz of DuBois. That the Democrats carried Clearfield County for President and Congress and elected one member of the Legislature is due in large measure to the splendid work done by the Chairman and his organization, and we Republicans who recognize and appreciate real merit even in an adversary, take this means of joining the worthy Chairman's Democratic friends in extending congratulations on his splendid victory.

AIDING THE BLIND.

It is gratifying to know that the merit of the Western Pennsylvania Institution for the Blind is so widely appreciated as evidenced by the generous contributions for their new buildings, which now total $60,000. A goodly portion of this amount was subscribed by the directors and corporators themselves before making any personal solicitation; and there is good reason to believe the long waiting list of sightless children is due to the school becoming better known throughout this section of the State and speaks well for its steadily growing efficiency. The contemplated additions to the buildings will not only afford accommodations for more pupils, but will also provide increased facilities to give all the children of Western Pennsylvania who are blind or have very defective eyesight a thorough literary, musical, industrial and physical education, and at the same time, to improve and conserve vision whenever possible. The training of this group of children is naturally slower than with the sighted, and it is practically another calamity in their lives if deprived of several years' schooling, frequently meaning a dependence which might have been averted by entering school at an earlier age.

"Happiness Through Independence" is the slogan at this worthy school; and the management is entitled to public support in their efforts to provide increased facilities. —Pittsburgh Dispatch.

THE TWO GRANDMOTHERS

In New York town a lady gay
Is tripping all the hours away
At the dansants along Broadway.
A bottle blonde she is I ween,
The rogue put off her face hath seen,
She had a debutantish mein,
Her skirts are short to an extreme,
And yet a Grandmamma is she
Her years they number sixty-three.

In Londontown a lady rare
With gracious mein and kindly air
And tender eyes 'neath snowy hair
Is working all the hours away.
Her share in England's bloody fray,
To tend the wounded day by day,
Though worn and tired she does not stay,
And yet a Grandmamma is she
Her years they number sixty-three.

London, Oct. 26.—(By Mail)—In American cities the grandmother is as extinct as the Dodo bird. To be sure we have a bit of giddy fluff that is turned out daily by the masseuse, the hair dresser, the smart dressmaker and the beauty doctor to fox trot and flirt and bridge it's way through a butterfly existence. It doesn't even answer to the name of grandmother however for the youngest generation has been painstakingly drilled to call it either by it's Christian name or a pet one.

Oh where are the grandmothers of yesterday? The grandmother of memories and storybooks. In rustling black silk skirts with a bit of old lace at her ivory throat and falling over her ivory hands. A wee lace cap on her silver hair and the peace and understanding and love of a double maternity shining in her old young eyes.

And I am an old sleuth! I have tracked her to her lair. I have discovered her in all her old time charm and old time lace and her habitat is England!

American parents take their offspring to the Zoo and to the Museum of Natural History to see the ichthyosaurus. Surely the next step should be to take them to London to show them a grandmother.

You can imagine the dramatic situation.

Little Robert (seeing a lovely white haired old lady in Hyde park).

"Oh, Mother what is that?"

Mother, "That is a grandmother, my son."

Little Robert, "Oh I want to take her home with me."

Mother, "No, my child, the air of America is fatal to grandmothers. Her hair would turn red or yellow, she would contract fox trot and be just like your 'Mommies'."

Little Robert (shuddering) "How terrible."

He walks slowly away looking back sadly.

Now I don't for a minute mean to imply that a woman should not be as young as she feels and as young as she can nor on the other hand do I mean that the English grandmother is an old frump. The true secret recipe for a successful grandmother is one who knows just when and how to grow old gracefully. The English grandmother has solved the problem. The American grandmother has not.

Although the English grandmother is a true one in all senses of the word she by no means is a hack number. Indeed she keeps abreast of the times, is up on all the burning questions of the day and is also in the thick of the wonderful war work that the women of England are doing.

I know of one wonderful old gentlewoman of eighty years. She is erect and entertaining and charming and dear. She has had fourteen children and at present four of her sons are in Parliament, two in the House of Lords and two in the House of Commons.

This dear old lady has turned her motor over to the wounded soldiers and goes about behind a plodding old Dobbin because she thinks it wicked to pay the high price for petrol just for her own selfish comfort. In many other ways she is doing her bit for the war and she is but one among many. She of course wears one of those sweet little lace caps on her snowy hair and a bonnet when she goes abroad.

To American eyes it is a startling and surprising sight to walk along the smart shops on Bond street and glimpse whole windows full of bonnets and little lace caps not of the boudoir persuasion that we know so well, but real grandmother ones.

Some of the bonnets of course are real bristlin and hearse plumed affairs but the majority are soft dove grey or black flecked with a silver leaf or blooming modestly with violets, a purple pansy or sweet hawthorn.

That's two things anyway that England may boast she has and America hasn't—bonnets and grandmothers!

BELL GIRLS SUPERSEDE BELL BOYS IN HOTEL STATLER

Cleveland, O., Nov. 11.—"Front" says the clerk at the hotel desk and instead of the customary ha-buttend boy there comes a "knock-me-down" blonde or a dashing brunette to take your luggage and pilot you to your room.

"Bell girls" are more attentive than bellboys says the originator of the idea. That is the reason they have been installed in the Hotel Statler here.

Women guests find the "bell girls" almost as useful as a maid, the management states. The "knock-me-down" problem is now easily solved.

None of the drummers has complained.

COAL HIGH, PROSPERITY DID IT, SAY DEALERS

New York, Nov. 11.—(By United Press)—Prosperity may yet freeze New York's population to death.

Such at least was today the explanation the coal man, laded out with each order coal—$10 to $12 a ton and still going up.

The mills and factories are so busy that their demands for coal is stupendous, is the unanimous averment. They have simply grabbed everything in sight and are aching to get their hands on more.

Of course a demand like that pushes prices up and the prices for domestic follow. Then, too, cars are scarce, storage is at an almost prohibitive figure and wages for all workers in the coal mining and handling activities are high. That's all.

"Wife, the mahogany center table goes into the fire next. We can put a piece of coal in the drawing room in its place and folks will believe we are tremendously wealthy." Such may be the solution.

To the timid and hesitating everything is impossible because it seems so.

CURWENSVILLE NEWS

The Curwensville Plumbing and Heating Company is installing an outfit for a bath room in the home of Max Roth.

Mrs. Frank Harley, Ridge Avenue, was taken to the Clearfield hospital today by her physician, Dr. H. O. King, and will undergo an operation.

The Herald is contemplating issuing a fine Christmas edition. Curwensville merchants should contribute liberally by buying ad space. It will be a peach.

A. Z. Wolf paid a visit to his Cato mining interests yesterday where he found everything working along to his entire satisfaction. A number of other Curwensville people are also interested in the Cato mining industry.

Mrs. E. H. Delaney, of Grantsville, Maryland, arrived in Curwensville yesterday, accompanied by her little son, Thomas, and will visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter, at the Park hotel.

Lycas Canola, employed at dumping cars at the Caldwell mines, had the middle finger of his hand badly lacerated yesterday afternoon. The wound was so severe that it required the attention of the mine physician, Dr. H. O. King.

Reuben Sherr was quite severely injured yesterday while trying to board a moving train of mine cars on the brick yard tram road. He was thrown to the ground. He is employed as a brakeman on the road. Dr. Ake rendered him medical assistance.

The hearts of the employees at the P. H. & L. company were made glad yesterday when superintendent Blake had notices posted throughout the buildings announcing a substantial raise in wages all around. The increase of wages came unsolicited on the part of the men, and therefore is doubly appreciated.

A young son of Bruce Draucker, had the misfortune yesterday afternoon to break the large bone below the knee, of his right leg. He, with some other boys, were playing at football in the alley near the school ground, and in running slipped and fell causing the injury. Dr. King reduced the fracture.

The Knights of Pythias order is getting in shape to work what is known in their lodge parlance, the long form of initiation. It is a very beautiful and interesting piece of work and requires about twenty persons to do the work properly, and also some very expensive paraphernalia. The lodge is certainly forging to the front rank in membership and working degrees.

Has anybody seen Si Richards since the election?—Curwensville Herald. It was reported last evening that some one saw him on his way to salt river with a crew of lukewarm Republicans, who were going to shovel fog away from the mouth of the stream so that the Hughes boats when they came that way on their trip would have no difficulty in finding their way into the stream.

W. D. Gates, one of the hardware merchants of Curwensville, who has been ill for some weeks, went to Clearfield hospital on Monday, where he is being prepared for an operation. The nature of which the Progress representative could not learn last evening. Mr. Gates has many friends in this town who will watch the progress of his case with considerable anxiety, and have only the one wish that he may come through his ordeal successfully.

W. P. Tate, who was a candidate on the Prohibition ticket for assembly, feels very grateful to his townspeople for the number of votes he received on Tuesday. He did not expect to be a winning candidate in the borough under the circumstances, and was rather surprised that he received as many votes as he did. He desires, through the Curwensville letter, of the Progress, to return his sincere thanks for the hearty support given him by his friends.

The miners employed at the Pyramid mines came out yesterday and are asking an increase of pay. This mine has been paying the scale price right along, 75 cents per gross ton. The demand is for $1.00 per gross ton. The demand seems to be an unjust one, as the operators are paying all that any, or the larger majority of mines are paying, the union scale price, which was signed up for two years. We were told last evening by one who is in a position to know for certainty, that there was not a miner employed at the Pyramid who, if he worked all day, could not make his three dollars and a half. It is to be hoped that the matter between the operators and the men will be amicably adjusted today.

Lesson VII.—Fourth Quarter, For Nov. 12, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Rom. xiv, 13, to xv, 3—Memory Verse, xiv, 15, 17—Golden Text, Rom. xiv, 21—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This is called a temperance lesson and is not intended to be used as an exhortation and a warning against the use of intoxicants, a most important topic, and a line of service on which we cannot do too much, but when I consider the intemperate people who are so often prominent in what is called temperance work I feel increasingly the need of getting at the root of the matter rather than prescribing for symptoms. The words "temperance" and "duty" are seldom used in the Scriptures, not over six or seven times in each in the whole Bible, and the meaning of temperance is self control in every form (Acts xiv, 25; 1 Cor. ix, 25; Gal. v, 23, 11 Pet. 1, 6). As in Paul's talk with Felix and verse 17 of our lesson, righteousness comes first. In 1 Cor. vi, 9, 10, where the drunkard is mentioned among other gross sinners, the opening sentence is "The unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God."

The great topic of this epistle is righteousness, the word being used at least thirty-five times and fifteen of these in chapters iv and x. As in I. 17, it is the righteousness of God, that which God requires, and has provided fully and freely in Christ, but which men object to, preferring their own filthy rags of self righteousness, character, reformation, duty and the like (Isa. lxiv, 6; Rom. x, 3). There is no possible way for any one, drunken or sober, moral or immoral, but to plead guilty, according to chap. iii, 19, and be justified freely by grace (iii, 24); this will come the peace and joy of being justified by faith (xiv, 17; xv, 13), and the patience and comfort of the Scriptures (xv, 4-6). It is no use to appeal to any kind of a sinner to do right, for until born again by receiving Christ all are said to be "in the flesh," merely "natural" people, and cannot please God (John 1, 12, 13; Rom. viii, 7, 8).

When Christ is received as a personal Saviour and our righteousness, then we are said to be "in the Spirit," and by the Spirit we may be led, controlled, live and make no provision for the flesh or its lusts (Rom. xiii, 14; Gal. v, 16-25). Salvation, of which the first eight chapters of this letter tell us so fully, is the free gift of God for all who will receive it, or rather Him (Rom. vi, 23; Rev. xxi, 6; xlii, 17), and there are no differences nor degrees, for all who are in Christ have all the benefits of His finished work and are equally saved and delivered from the wrath to come (I Thess. i, 10). Now, as saved people, we are supposed to have done with self and walk in His steps who never pleased Himself, but always pleased the Father and lived and died to save others (Rom. xiv, 7; xv, 3; 1 Pet. ii, 21-23; John viii, 20; Gal. ii, 20). If we thus had the good of others at heart instead of our own selfish ends we would not talk of eating or drinking what we pleased regardless of others' infirmities.

We are here to win others to Christ and then to help build them up in Him, rooted and grounded in love and filled with all the fullness of God for service here and an abundant entrance into His kingdom by and by (xiv, 19; Eph. iii, 16-20; 11 Pet. i, 5-11). Although all believers are accepted in the beloved, washed, sanctified and justified and made meet to be partakers of His inheritance (Eph. i, 6, 7; 1 Cor. vi, 11; Col. i, 12), we are left here for service and good works, for which every one of us shall give account of himself to God at the judgment seat of Christ, where only saved people shall be, and there our service shall be approved and rewarded, or else burned up and we suffer loss (xiv, 7-12; 1 Cor. iii, 11-15). The service which will be rewarded will be that which He wrought in us by His Spirit, according to Phil. ii, 13; Heb. xiii, 21. We cannot expect that anything we do of ourselves that is not His working in us will have His approval.

When I was off duty for eleven weeks a little over three years ago because of heart failure, which many thought would take me home, nothing gave more comfort in my weakness as I lay in bed than Rom. xiv, 8: "Whether we live, we live unto the Lord, and whether we die, we die unto the Lord. Whether we live, therefore, or die, we are the Lord's." It is possible so to abandon ourselves to Him for life or death, for service or suffering, that His perfect will shall be everything to us, and our heart song shall be, "Not I, but Christ, 'Not I, but the grace of God' (Gal. ii, 20) 1 Cor. xv, 10. This will keep us so occupied with Himself that we shall not see others except to help them and will make us so sensitive to what He likes or dislikes that we shall not wish to allow that which He would condemn.

Forgiveness is Jesus as an our way. The word 'Christ' doth move. That we are dead upon His arm and eat 'Dust Thou, dear Lord approve?' The kingdom to which we are hastening and which cannot come till He comes it is this our soul's vision, will lift us above all such matters as eating and drinking, and is there any harm in this or that, and our acceptable service of Christ will be manifestly righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Ghost (xvi, 17, 18).

ON THE SCREEN

"THE CAPTIVE GOD"

At the Opera House Monday Evening "The Captive God" in which William S. Hart is starred on the Triangle Program is the story of a little Spanish boy, who was cast upon the shore of Eastern coast of Mexico, early in the 16th century, when Mexico was dominated by the Aztec. Never having seen a white person before, the local natives, a tribe called Tehuans, him up as a god and call him Chiapa. When he reaches manhood Chiapa is given authority over the entire tribe. He falls in love with the priestess Telocote, and she yields to his advances altho she is quite unworthy of him and encourages other suitors. When the Aztec hear that under the white God, the Tehuans are very prosperous, they start forth to conquer them. The Aztec army is under command of Mexitli, the chief general of Montezuma, the emperor; and having conquered the Tehuans, he carried off Telocote as his personal slave. Chiapa follows as a spy and in the garden of Montezuma, he is wounded by a guard but Lolomi, the beautiful daughter of the emperor saves him. They fall in love. Meanwhile Mexitli has tired of Telocote and now seeks the hand of princess Lolomi, who would rather die than have him. As the emperor gives Mexitli his consent he tries to get the princess by force and in doing so discovers Chiapa. Chiapa is sentenced to die at the end of the year on the sacrificial stone. But Lolomi, finding her pleas to her father of no avail, sends word to the Tehuans that their god is captive. An avenging army sweeps down and there is brought about a sequence of thrilling scenes with a smashing finish.

Owner of Boston Red Sox Has Had Career of Fortune and Luck

Frazee Endowed With Idea that Fate and Luck Play Principal Part In His Life.

New York, Nov. 9.—"His youthful Ambition Realized" might be an appropriate title for a short story covering the comparatively short career of Harry H. Frazee from the time that he left school to the present day when his name appears as one of the new owners of the world's champions Boston Red Sox.

His acquisition of the Boston Club is said to have endowed Mr. Frazee with the idea that Fate plays a more important part in a man's life than what so many people are pleased to call luck. For he it is known that while Mr. Frazee has won fame and wealth as a theatrical magnate, his original idea concerning his future comprised no less a goal than the ownership of a baseball club, though it is improbable that at that time his ambition seemed so high as the ownership of a world's championship outfit.

At that time he was counted among the populace of Peoria, Ill., and had just reached the age of 16. His youthful ambition might have taken root and developed into something quite important, so far as the national game is concerned, except for the fact that his Peoria club lost the first game away from the home grounds, and failed to receive sufficient coin of the realm in a neighboring city to enable them to return home. Young Mr. Frazee telegraphed a fond parent, took the next train back to Peoria and decided to become a regular member of the theatrical profession.

So his introduction to the theater was accomplished as an usher. In a short time he graduated to the box office, but son decided that too much money was going into the hands of other people, and so he decided to branch out for himself.

"Better stay here Harry, where you're well off; you know, a rolling stone gathers no moss." These were the words of counsel the 18-year-old youth by George Harrington, owner of the Peoria playhouse, when the young box office man decided to leave his native city to go on the road in advance of a "rube" show at the magnificent salary of $25 a week. But Mr. Frazee had his own plans as to his future and decided to follow them out.

After touring as an advance agent for a small company in the Far West he migrated to Chicago and bought what is known as the "one-night stand" rights of "The Royal Chef," a musical comedy which had gained considerable prestige in Chicago, but failed to command much attention in the East. The profits of "The Royal Chef" may be said to have been the foundation of Mr. Frazee's fortune, for at that stage of his career the conditions in the smaller cities were particularly advantageous for subsidiary touring companies of metropolitan musical comedy successes.

With the results of "The Royal Chef" as an example, the young manager promptly sent on tour similar organizations in the subsequent Chicago musical successes, and finally decided that psychological moment had arrived to make a production of his own account. In association then with two other managers, he produced "Madame Sherry" the history of which is well known throughout the entire country. He built the Gaiety theater in Chicago in 1909, and "The Kissing Girl," one of the early attractions in that playhouse, was his first independent production. Then came in rapid succession such notable successes as "Ready Money," "Fine Feathers" and "A Pair of Sixes." Before his 30th birthday Mr. Frazee had amassed a considerable fortune and was looked upon as the most successful of the young theatrical producers in America.

Six months before the famous Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno Frazee noted the great interest of the public to see the big Californian who had held the pugilistic championship for some years, and Frazee immediately organized an athletic program, with James J. Jeffries at the head, playing a whirlwind tour of fourteen weeks which is said to have netted Frazee over $60,000.

Today Mr. Frazee enjoys the distinction of having made more big productions and managed more prominent stars than any man of his age in America. He produced "Fine Feathers" with a notable all-star cast including such well known players as Robert Edison, Wilton Lachapelle, Rose Coughlin and Max Flegman. Much to the surprise of the theatrical profession, he kept this organization intact for two entire seasons, during which time the play was seen with its original cast in every important city of America.

Those best acquainted with the manager and his abilities predict that his achievements as a theatrical magnate will be as brilliant as his success as an owner of theaters and a producer of plays.

THE GLORY OF PIONEERING

"Billowy prairies spreading afar,
Vastling hills where all my loved ones are

So I return while yet 'tis day,
Or shall I enter upon the unknown way?"

This song of the pioneers must have helped them greatly when they were dubious whether to continue on their hard way or return home to their loved ones.

Three cheers for these brave men who sacrificed homes and families, journeying into the far wastes for civilization's sake. When we celebrate the birthdays of the great men of our country let us not forget the unknown heroes who died alone and unknown on the great plains in order that habitation might extend into the far west.

While both Washington "The Father of His Country" and Lincoln, "The Savior of His Country," deserve unlimited glory, neither of them had hardships surpassing those which many pioneers endured in their ceaseless labors on the great wastes. Were it not for the pioneers who braved the dangers of the wilds, traveling on horseback and in prairie wagons, riding far into the night and camping by some forest's edge until early morning when they might again continue their hard journey, the great western cities would be wild plains. There would be for us no wonderful Yellowstone park or Sunny California. The United States would extend half way across the continent only—no further than the great mountains which we love so well now we have conquered them.

Hats off, we cry, to the brave men who performed the daring feats which have made all this possible. We envy the honor given every man or woman who has done anything for the betterment of our wonderful land. No glory can be taken from them, while we, enjoying their achievements, are a bit disappointed that we can not show our mettle like them.

But cheer up. We can be pioneers in a different way—in studies and research and social betterment. So there is some glory for us too—without the hardships, perhaps, but with the same opportunity to win the admiration of posterity.

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Glass of Salts if Your Back
Hurts or Bladder troubles you

No man or woman who eats meat
regularly can make a mistake by
flushing the kidneys occasionally.
says a well-known authority. Meat
forms uric acid which excites the
kidneys they become overworked
from strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all
rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble,
nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness,
and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in
the kidneys or your back hurts or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding,
stop eating meat and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acids
of grapes and lemon juice, combined
with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the
kidneys, also to neutralize the acids
in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.
Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure. makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep
the kidneys clean and active and the
blood pure, thereby avoiding serious
kidney complications.
